A CULTURAL WEEKEND...

How I'll spend the next 48 hours

AS I'm in the hotel industry, the hours aren't always as sociable as they might be and I often end up working weekends, so I'm delighted to have this one free and I'm definitely planning to cram in as much as I can!

I'm a massive Doctor Who fan and haven't managed to get to the exhibition in Cardiff Bay yet, so that's high on the list.

My friend and I will be heading there as early as possible to enjoy the full experience, which includes a map to direct you to all the locations in the city at which the series has been filmed – and we'll definitely be visiting them all.

David Tennant is God as far as I'm concerned so I'm looking forward to walking in his footsteps. I still haven't come to terms with the fact he's leaving the series.

After that, we'll have a well-earned break for lunch, probably at Las Iyanas in Cardiff, and we're then heading off to Cineworld for a mammoth movie session – literally as many as we can squeeze in back-to-back through the afternoon and into the evening.

It's my birthday on Tuesday so on Sunday I'm planning plenty of pampering to help get me relaxed and ready to enjoy it.

Laura Peeroo is general manager of Sleepers Hotel in Cardiff.
