Cardiff hotel makes the grade

Aled Samuel and Leah Hughes with Sleeperz head of sales & marketing, Javeed Anwar

One of the capital's newest and most stylish hotels is celebrating, having been handpicked to appear on a programme which celebrates the best that the industry has to offer – across the world. The design-led Sleeperz Hotel, which is situated directly adjacent to Cardiff Central Station will feature during the next season of S4C's 04 Wal: Hotels of the World series, hosted by Aled Samuel and interior designer, Leah Hughes.

The programme is a new take on the popular 04 Wal, which for 9 years has focused on people in their homes and decided to mark its tenth year with something a bit different. Sleeperz finds itself in esteemed company as hotels that have already featured in the first series include Raffles in Dubai, the XVA Art Hotel in the United Arab Emirates and Morocco's Dar Darma. The second series is due to hit the screens this autumn.

The Sleeperz concept is based around compact hotels in city centre locations adjacent to mainline railway stations, offering great value for money. Cardiff's hotel is the first of several others planned across the UK.

The hotel is a modern, highly visible and instantly recognisable building with stylish, high specification room designs, each of which feature floor to ceiling windows that afford views across the city and maximise their compact space with bespoke furniture.
