One of the city's newest hotels has been selected to appear on a programme celebrating international design.

The design-led Sleeperz Hotel, which is situated directly adjacent to Cardiff Central Station, will feature in the next season of S4C's 04 Wal: Hotels of the World series, hosted by Aled Samuel and interior designer Leah Hughes.

The programme is a new take on the popular 04 Wal, which for nine years focused on people in their homes and decided to mark its tenth year with something a bit different.

Sleeperz will be featured alongside Raffles in Dubai, the XVA Art Hotel in United Arab Emirates and Morocco's Dar Darna in the series, which is due to be aired this autumn.

The Sleeperz concept is based around compact hotels in city-centre locations adjacent to mainline railway stations, offering great value for money at only £55 a night. The Cardiff hotel is the first of several others planned across the UK.

Javeed Anwar, head of marketing and sales, said he was delighted that the building's striking architectural design and stylish interior design had appealed to the programme-makers.

"We're absolutely delighted that this will be seen by viewers of this popular programme and the filming was a great experience in itself. We're looking forward to seeing it on screen in the autumn," said Javeed.
